

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to an energy transform device for linear motion that can transform energy into one or more output electricity, and the output electricity are independent to each other, so 5 they won't interfere with each other.